Hi, Paul,

I ran across your Web site today when I did a search on Anna Massova. She's my wife's grandmother and about five years ago I wrote a profile of her in the Slovak Spectator. Your Web site links to it. Anna died last Friday and was buried on Sunday. She was 97 years old and will be greatly missed.

You'll be interested to know that one of her daughters (my wife's aunt Anna), is married to a Miga and has two sons who bear the name Miga (it's pronounced "MEE-Guh" here, by the way, or "MEE-go-VUH"). They still live in Kapisova, across the street from Anna Massova's house. I don't know much about the Miga family, but I thought you would be interested in knowing they are still around Kapisova. I'll ask my mother-in-law about them. I'm sure she'll know quite a lot about the family.

It's a nice Web site. I'll look at it more in depth later today. All the best,

David McLean
